

PennDOT has decided to move forward with the design and implementation of the diverging diamond interchange. This project alternative will be progressed through preliminary engineering, final design, right-of-way, utility clearance, and construction. Please note that dates shown below are subject to change based upon funding, development of design, and permitting approvals.

